DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

The Walter Margroff House is located several feet SW of Cove Road, about 3 mi. SE of Griffith Road. The ground slopes sharply down from NE to SW, making the house's foundation more visible at the rear. Across the road to the NW is a large frame barn, with silo, and other outbuildings belonging to the property. Behind and to the S of the house are several small frame outbuildings. There is a small stream SW of the house.

The house is a two-story, gable-roofed dwelling measuring five bays across the facade. The facade points NE. The side elevations measure two bays across, and the rear elevation measures three bays. A two bay by one bay kitchen section is attached to the W end of the NW elevation.

The house rests on a randomly coursed stone foundation and is covered with white aluminum siding. The windows are two over two sash with mitred surrounds. On the rear (SW) elevation, the central windows on both floors are offset to the S and are smaller than the others. These windows have one pane each. The facade door is centrally placed and has a large glass panel and a two-paned transoms. The roof is covered with standing seam metal.

The house has two exterior cinderblock chimneys on the SW elevation, and an interior brick chimney with a corbelled cap SE of center. A one-story hipped-roofed porch runs the length of the facade and half-way along the NW elevation to the kitchen section. Its roof is supported by modern wrought iron columns and is covered with asphalt shingles.

The interior of the house is unknown. Across the road is a frame bank barn on a concrete block foundation. It is covered with vertical boards and roofed with corrugated metal. The silo is modern. Other outbuildings are constructed of frame or concrete block.
